How to Study N3 Vocabulary

The N3 Vocabulary Challenge

N3 vocabulary is where English intuition stops being reliable. Three key challenges:

1. NEAR-SYNONYMS — N3 has many words that appear to be the same but differ crucially:
   問題 (problem) vs 課題 (assigned task/challenge)
   むしろ (rather) vs かえって (unexpectedly the opposite)
   原因 (cause) vs 背景 (background/context)

2. FIXED COLLOCATIONS — N3 words often only appear in specific combinations:
   影響 → を与える / を受ける (not just 影響する!)
   取り組む → に取り組む (not を取り組む!)
   訴える → に訴える / を訴える (direction changes the meaning!)

3. REGISTER SHIFTS — N3 introduces vocabulary that only sounds natural in formal or literary contexts. Using them in casual speech can sound strange or even rude.
   e.g. 申す, 伺う, 拝見する (keigo), おっしゃる — all formal/written register.

! Top N3 Vocabulary Traps

せいで (because of — negative) vs おかげで (thanks to — positive)
むしろ (I'd rather X) vs かえって (X happened instead of expected Y)
〜に違いない (strong certainty) vs 〜はずだ (logical expectation)
〜わけにはいかない (can't very well do) vs 〜わけがない (there's no way that)
曖昧 (vague/ambiguous) vs 微妙 (subtle/delicate/borderline)
いらっしゃる = いる / 行く / 来る (all three! — context decides)

Lesson 1: Social Issues & Abstract Nouns (社会問題・抽象名詞)

N3 introduces a large number of abstract nouns that appear in news articles, essays, and formal conversation. Mastering these is essential for the reading comprehension section.

1 Usage Notes

Key Points

問題 (mondai) is the most versatile: can mean 'problem', 'question', or 'issue'. Context decides.
課題 (kadai) = task/challenge assigned to you. 問題 is more general; 課題 has a sense of obligation.
影響 (eikyoo) = influence/impact. Always followed by を与える (to give impact) or を受ける (to receive impact).
傾向 (keikoo) = tendency/trend. Often used with 〜がある: 増加する傾向がある.
格差 (kakusa) = gap/disparity. 貧富の格差 (rich-poor gap) is a key N3 compound phrase.

Lesson 4: Keigo — Polite & Humble Language (敬語)

Keigo is tested at every level from N4, but N3 requires a thorough understanding of all three types. This lesson focuses on the most commonly tested keigo expressions in the JLPT.

1 Usage Notes

Key Points

Three types of keigo: 尊敬語 (sonkeigo) = respectful (about what OTHERS do), 謙譲語 (kenjoogo) = humble (about what YOU do), 丁寧語 (teineigo) = polite (neutral level — です/ます).
いらっしゃる = the respectful version of いる, 行く, AND 来る. Context tells you which.
おっしゃる = respectful for 言う. You cannot use おっしゃる for your OWN speech.
申す (もうす) = humble for 言う. Always use for your own statements in formal situations.
Common mistake: using 〜させていただく too frequently. It's humble, but overuse sounds unnatural.
