How to Study N4 Vocabulary

The N4 Vocabulary Jump

N4 vocabulary differs from N5 in three important ways:

1. NUANCE — N4 has many near-synonym pairs where context decides which to use:
   嬉しい (happy about something specific) vs 楽しい (generally having fun)
   思う (feel/think emotionally) vs 考える (think logically/analytically)
   説明する (to explain with intent) vs 話す (simply to speak)

2. REGISTER — N4 introduces the full giving/receiving verb system, which encodes social relationships. This is one of the most uniquely Japanese vocabulary systems and has no direct English equivalent.

3. TRANSITIVITY PAIRS — Many N4 verbs come in intransitive/transitive pairs:
   増える (increases by itself) / 増やす (you increase it)
   変わる (changes by itself) / 変える (you change it)
   覚える (to memorize) / 覚める (to wake/become sober)

! Most Confusing N4 Vocabulary Pairs

着る (to put on/wear upper body) vs 着く (to arrive) — same kanji, different readings
怒る (okoru: to get angry) vs 起こる (okoru: to happen) — same reading, different kanji!
〜てあげる (give favor TO someone) vs 〜てもらう (receive favor FROM someone)
褒める (to praise) vs 誉める (same word, older kanji) vs 褒賞 (prize/reward)
教える (to teach) vs 習う (to learn/take lessons) — opposite perspectives
増える (intrans: increases) vs 増やす (trans: increase it) — always check transitivity

Lesson 1: Giving & Receiving Verbs (授受動詞)

Giving and receiving verbs are THE most important N4 grammar point for vocabulary. They encode social relationships directly into the verb choice. Getting them wrong sounds unnatural even if your grammar is correct.

1 Usage Notes

How to Use These Words

Key usage notes for this lesson:

1. Direction matters: あげる = you give TO someone. もらう = you receive FROM someone. くれる = they give TO you.
2. Register: さしあげる (humble give UP), いただく (humble receive), くださる (respectful receive)
3. NEVER use あげる when giving to someone of higher status — use さしあげる instead.
4. くれる has a built-in 'for me/my group' feeling. It implies gratitude or appreciation.
5. These verbs attach to て-form: 〜てあげる, 〜てもらう, 〜てくれる — all covered in grammar lessons.

2 Vocabulary Reference Table

Read each word and example sentence aloud. Cover the English and test yourself.

Lesson 3: Describing Change (変化の表現)

Change vocabulary is critical at N4 because it connects to key grammar patterns (〜くなる, 〜になる, 〜ていく, 〜てくる). These words describe how situations, people, and things transform over time.

1 Usage Notes

How to Use These Words

Key usage notes for this lesson:

1. 増える (intransitive: increases by itself) vs 増やす (transitive: someone increases it).
2. 変わる (changes by itself) vs 変える (someone changes it). Same kanji, opposite transitivity.
3. 〜くなる / 〜になる pattern: adjectives → くなる (i-adj) or になる (na-adj/N).
4. 回復する (kaifuku suru) = to recover. Can describe health, economy, or relationships.
5. 発展する = to develop/expand (positive). Don't confuse with 発達 (hattatsu) = development (of a person/skill).

2 Vocabulary Reference Table

Read each word and example sentence aloud. Cover the English and test yourself.

Lesson 4: Verbs of Communication & Interaction (コミュニケーション動詞)

Communication verbs move beyond basic 話す/聞く/言う at N4. You need these for describing social interactions — inviting, refusing, explaining, requesting, praising, and apologising.

1 Usage Notes

How to Use These Words

Key usage notes for this lesson:

1. 説明する vs 話す: 説明する = to explain (with a pedagogical/informative intent); 話す = simply to speak.
2. 誘う (sasou) = to invite/ask out. Used for inviting to events, dates, outings — not formal invitations (招待する).
3. 断る (kotowaru) = to decline/refuse. More polite tone than 嫌 or だめ — used in formal situations.
4. 謝る (ayamaru) = to apologize. Note: the KANJI is 謝, not 許 (which means 'to forgive/permit').
5. 褒める (homeru) = to praise. Don't confuse with ほめる written as 誉める (less common).

2 Vocabulary Reference Table

Read each word and example sentence aloud. Cover the English and test yourself.

Word	Reading	Meaning	Type	Example sentence
説明する	せつめいする	to explain	V	使い方を説明してください。 Please explain how to use it.
連絡する	れんらくする	to contact / get in touch	V	後で連絡しますね。 I'll contact you later.
確認する	かくにんする	to confirm / check	V	もう一度確認してください。 Please check one more time.
誘う	さそう	to invite / ask out	V	映画に誘いましたが、断られました。 I invited (them) to a movie but was refused.
断る	ことわる	to refuse / decline	V	丁寧に断ることが大切です。 It's important to decline politely.
謝る	あやまる	to apologise	V	ミスをして、すぐに謝りました。

Word	Reading	Meaning	Type	Example sentence
				I made a mistake and apologised right away.
褒める	ほめる	to praise / compliment	V	先生に作文を褒められました。 I was praised by the teacher for my essay.
叱る	しかる	to scold / reprimand	V	子供が危ないことをしたので叱りました。 I scolded the child for doing something dangerous.
相談する	そうだんする	to consult / discuss	V	困ったことがあれば相談してください。 If you're in trouble, please come and consult me.
報告する	ほうこくする	to report	V	進捗を上司に報告します。 I will report the progress to my boss.

Lesson 5: Adjectives — N4 Level (N4 の形容詞)

N4 adjectives move beyond simple descriptions into more nuanced states and qualities. Many of these appear in JLPT vocabulary questions and reading passages. Pay attention to which are い-adjectives vs な-adjectives.

1 Usage Notes

How to Use These Words

Key usage notes for this lesson:

1. 珍しい (mezurashii) = rare/unusual. NOT the same as 新しい (atarashii) = new.
2. 正しい (tadashii) = correct/right. Its negative: 正しくない. Don't confuse with 正直 (shoojiki) = honest.
3. 丈夫 (joobu) is a な-adjective meaning 'strong/durable'. 体が丈夫 = in good physical health.
4. 真面目 (majime) = serious/diligent. One of the most common personality adjectives in Japanese.
5. 勿体無い (mottainai) = wasteful. A uniquely Japanese concept with no direct English equivalent.

2 Vocabulary Reference Table

Lesson 6: Time, Sequence & Frequency (時間・順序・頻度)

Time and frequency vocabulary is constantly tested at N4. These words appear in sentence-construction questions, reading passages, and listening. Many are adverbs — they modify the whole sentence.

1 Usage Notes

How to Use These Words

Key usage notes for this lesson:

1. だいぶ = quite/considerably (度合いが大きい). Different from 大分 (same word, different kanji rarely used).
2. ずっと = continuously/all along. Can mean 'by far' in comparisons: ずっと大きい = much bigger.
3. やっと = finally (after a long wait/effort). いつか = someday (vague future expectation).
4. 〜たびに = every time ~. This is a grammar pattern using the noun 度 (tabi). Study it in grammar lessons too.
5. 頻度 adverbs order: いつも > よく > 時々 > たまに > めったに〜ない > 全然〜ない

2 Vocabulary Reference Table

Read each word and example sentence aloud. Cover the English and test yourself.

Word	Reading	Meaning	Type	Example sentence
